

25 June 2019
For Immediate Release

Jewellery Clambake

Cox & Power hosts a Jewellery Clambake for the London Design Festival, 14 to 21 September 2019

This is a get-together to talk all things jewellery: craftsmanship, design, provenance and what makes a piece of Cox & Power jewellery unique. Step inside the story and discover how an idea or an unloved jewel can be transformed into a precious new piece to treasure forever.

Bring along your thoughts, ideas and jewellery you may not love as much as you'd like to and talk about transforming them into something new that combines the Cox & Power design sensibility with your own personality and style.

In conversation, Tony Power, Rachel Sweeney and the Cox & Power team will reveal the provenance of their designs - from inspiration to the source of their materials; why they work with Fairtrade and Fairmined gold and the people, processes and artistry involved in the creation of Cox & Power jewellery.

Join an afternoon or evening gathering to talk about transforming your thoughts or existing pieces into a piece of jewellery you will love for life. Or if you prefer, make an appointment with to sit down with Tony Power and discuss your ideas one-to-one.

Notes to Editor:

About Cox & Power

The touchstone for modern jewellery design for over 25 years, Cox & Power brings a fresh approach to an ancient craft, combining authentic local craftsmanship with a global curiosity.

Cox & Power are the only goldsmiths designing, creating and exhibiting their jewellery in London's West End at their boutique in Marylebone's Chiltern Street.

Proud to be co-founders of Fair Luxury, their distinctive designs have a provenance that goes right back to the source with collections made with Fairtrade and Fairmined Gold.

Cox & Power
10-12 Chiltern Street
London W1U 7PX

open Mon-Sat 10.30–6pm

marylebone@coxandpower.com
coxandpower.com
@coxandpower

For more information contact

Rachel Sweeney
sweeney@coxandpower.com
020 79353530