“The Surgery”, A Unique Event for Creative Minds

In Partnership with London Design Festival, Featuring Nicolas Roope

Partnering with London Design Festival, Creative Entrepreneurs is bringing a special design edition of “The Surgery” - its mentoring and networking event series - to Second Home Spitalfields on Tuesday the 17th September.

This not-to-be-missed event for creative individuals will return with its panel of leading creative business experts in the fields of legal, finance and marketing, discussing everything a start-up founder needs to know to get their business off the ground.

For this special design edition, the panel will also feature exclusive insight from inspiring design icon Nik Roope, the founder of Poke, Plumen and The Lovie Awards. For the first time in his career, Nik will be discussing how he turned his unique ideas into these three groundbreaking design initiatives.

The only one of its kind, this event allows creatives the rare opportunity to have their business questions answered directly by professionals who are at the top of their game, as well as hearing from an iconic design entrepreneur who has launched an innovative array of creative businesses, from a services company (Poke), to a revolutionary product (Plumen), to an awards ceremony (The Lovie Awards).

As the UK’s fastest growing sector, the creative industries have never been more relevant than they are now, and “The Surgery” aims to bring together and support those creative individuals who want to bring their own slice of innovation to life!

Further information and ticket info can be found on Eventbrite.
