LAYER × RÆBURN – The Canopy Collection

Responsible design company RÆBURN and strategic design agency LAYER are proud to present The Canopy Collection – a unique lounge chair and screen pushing the boundaries of innovative and responsible furniture design through the use of recycled parachute material.

The collection will be unveiled as part of an installation in RÆBURN's new pop-up store location in Central London for London Design Festival.

The furniture pieces are made of long-lasting welded steel frames prototyped and manufactured in the UK by Allermuir (@allermuir) – one of the UK's leading furniture manufacturers.

Designed in collaboration with Benjamin Hubert and LAYER, the Canopy Collection presents a timeless design language of strict geometry which acts as a framework for RÆBURN's innovative and forward-thinking recycled parachute upholstery.

RÆBURN's iconic surplus parachute material has been cleverly used to offer padding, webbing and cover solutions contrasting with the frame's enduring design.

The collection is tuned into the semantics of a parachute in flight – the lounge chair gently rocks back and forth whilst the re-configurable screen takes inspiration from the section and construction of a wing.

The pieces will be on display in RÆBURN's new pop-up store in Soho for the duration of London Design Festival, alongside the label's Autumn/Winter 2019 tenth anniversary collection.

LAYER is a strategic design agency based in East London founded by Benjamin Hubert, an award-winning British design entrepreneur. LAYER is focused on experience-driven design for both the physical and digital worlds. Led by Benjamin and a growing creative team, LAYER is partnering with forward-thinking brands – including Nike, Google, Bang and Olufsen, Samsung, Braun, Fritz Hansen and Vitra – to create products that will help define the way we live, work and communicate in the future, from A.I to smart wearables and furniture systems, to the next generation of media devices and mobile communication tools. Aware of how design can be used as a powerful tool for positive change, LAYER is also engaged with not-for-profit charity projects, including a collaboration with UK cancer charity Maggie's and the Carbon Trust.

About RÆBURN
