

DESIGN & DINE

A London Design Festival Supper Club, created in partnership with HAY, &Tradition, Keays & Kempton, and Dinner Ladies.

Press Release

17th - 21st September

During London Design Festival 2019, from the 17th - 21st September, HAY and &Tradition London will host an intimate supper club at their temporarily transformed London home overlooking St. James's Park on 34 Queen Annes Gate, London. In partnership with Keays & Kempton and the Dinner Ladies, the event has been conceived to revive the historical building's former cocktail bar and dining room with an inviting and design-led take on the traditional private members club it once was, creating a series of intimate and immersive dining experiences for London's design and food enthusiasts.

Design & Dine is a prime opportunity for guests to fully immerse themselves in the latest furniture, lighting and accessories launches from design brands HAY and &Tradition, whilst enjoying autumnal dishes and nordic inspired cocktails curated to suit the event by London chefs the Dinner Ladies.

The venue is an elegant, historical townhouse with a terrace and dining room overlooking St. James Park, formally known as the St. Stephens Club. Creative duo Keays & Kempton have transformed each room of the house creating a space and mood which references the building's former life as a gentleman's club, balancing the latest furniture and lighting launches from HAY and &Tradition with objects, antiques and bespoke artwork commissioned and selected for the exhibition. A central element of the restaurant includes a landscape hand-painted on 3 walls of the dining room, transporting diners into a Scandinavian countryside.

Over five evenings only, the Dinner Ladies will be on site as guest chefs, serving a 3 course dinner and cocktails that champion sustainable and seasonal ingredients inspired by their Danish partners' approach to design.
